EU Gold Announces Appointments

Vancouver, British Columbia - EU Gold Mining Inc. ("EU Gold" or the "Company") announces the appointment of Andrea Grifagni of Arezzo, Italy to lead the Company's activities in West Africa, where it holds key mineral property interests in Côte d'Ivoire and is actively advancing gold exploration initiatives.

Mr. Grifagni brings over 25 years of experience in the precious metals sector, combining extensive capital markets expertise with hands-on operational leadership in mining project development. His unique blend of financial acumen and in-country experience positions him well to oversee the Company's strategic growth and advancement of its Kimoukro Gold Project in Côte d'Ivoire.

Over the past 15 years, Mr. Grifagni has been directly involved in the development of multiple mining projects across Africa, successfully advancing projects from early-stage exploration through to development. This regional knowledge will be instrumental as the Company continues to advance its key gold properties.

In addition to his operational background, Mr. Grifagni has a strong foundation in financial markets, with a comprehensive understanding of capital allocation, project valuation, and risk management within the precious metals industry. Mr. Grifagni holds a Bachelor's degree in Economics and Business, equipping him with a solid foundation in economic principles, financial analysis, and market dynamics. His combined technical, financial, and regional expertise is expected to contribute to the long-term success and profitability of the Company's investments in the precious metals sector, led by its Kimoukro Gold Project.

Also joining EU Gold's senior management team is Dr. Riccardo Aquè, PhD, an Exploration Manager and structural geologist with nearly two decades of experience in mineral exploration, including international work across Europe, Africa, and the Americas, following over 10 years in academia.

He combines strong expertise in structural geology and mineral systems with extensive industry experience in gold exploration, particularly within orogenic and structurally controlled environments. His work focuses on the integration of geological interpretation, geophysical datasets, and drilling results to develop and continuously refine 3D geological models and generate high-quality, drill-ready targets.

Dr. Aquè has been actively involved in the design and management of exploration programs, including Côte d'Ivoire, with a focus on structural controls on mineralization, targeting under cover, and the optimization of drilling strategies through iterative model testing and multidisciplinary data integration.

A CRIRSCO Competent Person and Eurogeologist, he contributes to mineral resource evaluation and project advancement in accordance with international reporting standards. His approach emphasizes geological consistency, multidisciplinary integration, and rigorous, data-driven decision-making in exploration and resource development.

His work is grounded in the principle that robust geological models, continuously tested against data, are the key to successful exploration

"We are very pleased to welcome these senior executives to the Company," said Robert Eadie, CEO of the Company. "Their combined extensive experience in the financial, operational and geological aspects of the mining industry, along with their deep understanding of Africa, in particular, Côte d'Ivoire, makes them uniquely qualified to lead our activities in the region as we advance our gold exploration programs."
